Which Beater Blade Is Right for My Machine?

First let's discuss the why. Why should you choose a beater blade? Did you know that Beater Blade was the first paddle on the market with a proprietary soft plastic edge? That's right, even before KitchenAid offered the flex edge beater, Beater Blade was there to pave the way. This means that not only KitchenAid but many other brands essentially ripped off the product from the original inventor. First doesn't always mean best, but when it comes to a silicon edge beater, there is none better than the beater blade. Its sleek design, powder coated metal frame and high quality proprietary soft plastic edges make it a superior product. Did I mention the beater is contoured in a helical fashion? Its Helical nature really helps to allow the blades to rub the bowl through the duration of the planetaries rotation resulting in a superior end product!
